

Album and Compilations

Sarp Yilmaz finally releases his Since You've Been Gone Away L.P via Appare

11th February 2015 Apparel Music pushes forward this March with a LP album from Sarp Yilmaz. The turkish producer teams up with seventeen tracks: seven being on vinyl only, the other nine tracks are release in digital format only. The overall end production is a masterpiece, each track is carefully constructed with due care and attention. Vocals use throughout, are those that in some places will bring tears to your ears and have you melt comfortably into the background. It's a real example of what Deep House is and should be, we highly recommend that if you listen to one album in 2015 then this is the one!

“Electronic Music Artist From Istanbul... I like to do stuff like doing records and spinnin them. Some people take interest in what I do, This is what this is all about. ”

So self-describes Sarp Yilmaz, apparently not being fond of talking in big letters about himself. In a recent interview, Osunlade talks of him as the best new Artist in his Guardian interview, and Maya Jane Coles has dropped his tunes on Pete Tong's Essential Selection, and having already been charted by many top Djs and Artists (Stacey Pullen, Osunlade, Bill Patrick, Dapayk, Marco Resmann, Niederflur to name a few) across the globe. And his tracks have been chosen for 'Track of the day' on Beatportal, his stuff is two times bestseller on Whatpeopleplay charts and his tracks pops on every important podcast lately, be it a Cadenza podcast or Compost Black sessions. Recently released his debut album on Apparel music that climbed the charts on all major stores, reaching pole position on WPP charts again, he's been praised now for his unique take on Deep House by many, and now is at service to everyone who likes House Music with a little bit odd Flavour and open mind. The "Since You've Been Gone Away" LP' physical issue is exclusive in Apparel Music bandcamp store.
